RIGHT ARM TORN OFF!

Godfrey W. Howard, of Williamsport, Meets With Frightful Accident.

Godfrey W. Howard, son of Mrs. Editha A. Howard, and grand-son of the late William Howard and Mrs. M. A Rockwell, of Emporium, was on Wednesday of last week the victim of a frightful accident at Peekskill, N. Y., while taking part in an artillery practice, the occasion being the last day of Military Academy, where he attended school. The cannon to which Godfrey was attached becoming overheated prematurely discharged tearing the young man's right arm off at the shoulder. He was immediately taken to the hospital and the operation took place at once. A telegram received by Mrs. Rockwell from her daughter reports the operation successful and the patient resting easy.

A large party of friends, mostly relatives of the students, were present at the artillary practice, Mrs. Howard and daughter being among the number when the accident took place. Imagine the shock to the mother and sister.

Our citizens generally feel deeply the terribly calamity that has befallen this young mon, and hope for his speedy recovery.

DEATH'S DOINGS.

LACEY.

JOHN LACEY, for 26 years a resident of Emporium, died on Friday, June 15th 1906, at his residence, aged 55 years. Deceased has bean a great sufferer for more than a year, his ailment being dropsy. Deceased came to Emporium from Ireland in 1880, accompanied by his wife, whose maiden name was Mary Conneys. Immediately upon his locating in Emporium he entered the employ of the railroad company, having always been a trusted and faithful man. Of late years he has been inspector of air brakes. A quiet, industrious cititzen he prospered and reared a family of five sons and two daughters, all of whom were present at the funeral except John, who resides at Seattle, Wash.: Sylvester, Pittsburg; George, Renovo; Patrick, Pittsburg; Mary, Barbara, Michael, Emporium. The burial took place on Monday morning, appropriate services being held at St. Mark's Catholic Church in the presence of a large assemblage of sympathizing friends.

Those from out of town who attended the funeral: Jas. Carroll Patrick Kinny, Miss Ellen Kipny; Buffalo; Mr. and Mrs. John Williams, Thos. and Jas. Harrington, St Marys; Mr. and Mrs. James Clussey, Keating Summitt

Wedding in the Bell Boy Company.

"The Bell Boy Company" has played at Emporium opera house for three nights to good audiences, giving a pleasing entertainment each evening.

Thursday morning in St. Marks Church two members of the Company, Miss Irene Galvin and Mr. John H. Miner were united in marriage, by the Rev. Father Downey, the ring ceremony being performed. The wedding was a very pretty one, the attendants all being members of the same company. During the ceremony "O Promise Me" was sung by one of the company. The church was beautifully decorated, and altogether it was a typical June wedding. A large assemblage of friends were present as well as many of our citizens.

Olean Must Suffer.

Mrs. Jas. S. Douglas and Mrs, J. H. Swain, of Olean, (both former residents of Emporium) invited a number of Emporium lady friends to become their guests on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. What a time they will have. The following ladies left yesterday morning and as soon as Brother Gassaway Davis spied them he notified the dealers to double their orders for immediate delivery: Mesdames J. D. Logan, I. K. Hockley, Lizzie Hinkle, Chas Seger, H. S. Lloyd, C. W. Shaffer, R. C Dodson. E. D. White, F. G Judd, T. F. Moore, J. P. McNarney, Geo. Metzger, Jr., and C. J. Goodnough.

Fourth Street Paving.

Hon. Josiah Howard, who has long agitated and urged that Fourth street be paved with brick, having previously expended several hundred dollars in filling in with cinders to an established grade, has purchased several car loads of Calder paving brick, and intends paving from Emmanuel Episcopal Church west, about 100 feet Mr. Howard has repeatedly offered to join with any other public spirited citizens and extend the good work.

Unite in Electing Judge Green.

(Philadelphia Press.)

The recent appointment of B. W. Green to the judgeship in the Cameron-Clinton-Elk District, so long presided over by the late Judge Mayer, has given the greatest satisfaction evidently. The new Judge is highly commended by the people of the district. Before his appointment he had a recognized position as a leader at the bar, and he was supported for the appointment by a sentiment that could not be ignored. He will undoubtedly be the Republican nominee for election to the full term, and unless political conditions mix up the district there should be no question of his election. The district has never before had a Republican judge, and only on exceptional occasions has it given a Republican majority. For that reason the contest this year will be a hard one, the Democrats being certain to nominate some one of those who are ambitious to secure a place on the bench. If such a contest could be avoided and all parties unite in electing Judge Green the result would be the best possible thing for the district. It would not only secure a high minded and able Judge, but it would free him from every political obligation.

State Educational Association.

One of the most important State conventions of the year will be that of the Pennsyleania Educational Association to be held at Altoona, July 3, 4 and 5, 1906.

This body comprehends all of the educational forces of the state from the kindergarten to the University.

The most prominent educators will take part in the deliberations of the convention.

This will be the fiftieth meeting of the Association and it promises to be one of the most memorable in its history. Its sessions will be held in Altoona's magnificent high school building, one of the finest of its character in the country.

Teachers and others desiring to attend this meeting should send for card orders for special rates on the railroads to Mr. E. C. Hare, High School, Altoona, Pa.

Special Meeting of Business Men's Association.

A special meeting of the Retail Merchants Association of Cameron county will be held at the Council Room, Emporium, on Friday evening, June 28th. It is earnestly requested that every member of the Association be in attendance as much business of mutual benefit will be passed. Pin this notice before you and be on hand at 8:30 sharp. A special invitation is extended to the business men of Cameron, Sterling Run, Driftwood, Sinnamahoning and other sections of the county to be present.

Ice Cream Social.

There will be an ice cream social on the lawn of George Nickerson's at the mouth of Cook's Run in Rich Valley, Saturday of this week, June 23. Proceeds to pay for cleaning cemetery and filling in the graves. Every one cordially invited to attend, especially people from North Creek and Clear Creek. All who have relatives or friends laying there should take an interest in and help the cause. All aid would be thankfully received by the people of Rich Valley.

Producers and Consumers.

Is the title of the second document of the Congressional campaign of 1906, issued by the American Protective Tariff League. The pamphlet is a reproduction of the great speech of Hon. Leslie M. Shaw, Secretary of the Treasury, recently delivered at St. Louis. Send postal card request for free copy. Ask for Document Nor 85. Address W. F. Wakeman, Secy., 339 Broadway, New York.

Elk County Gang's Desperate Trick.

The PRESS was informed early of the contemplated trick to be played by the desperate Elk County Gang on Tuesday, in their frantic effort to defeat Judge Green's nomination. The unheardof program was to convene the Republican County COMMITTEE and name three Judicial Conferees, which they did and instructed the three conferees, Messrs. Geo. H. Younger, Johnsonburg, Anthona Sammick, Benzinger and Leo H. Garbarino, of Jay township, and instructed them to vote for Capt. W. C. Kress, of Clinton, for President Judge. It is needless to say that those Republicans and hundreds of Democrats not owned by the Gang, are thoroughly indignant at this piece of high-handed machine dirty conspiracy. Scores of Democrats in this county openly denounce the fraud and rally more loyally to Judge Green's support.

The Lock Haven Daily Express, last evening, editorially says:

"A 'SNAP' session of the Republican county committee of Elk county was held in the parlors of the New Hyde hotel at Ridgway yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock to elect three judgeship conferees. Geo. H. Younger of Johnsonburg, Anthony Sammick of Benzinger township and Leo H. Garbarino of Jay township were chosen as conferees and instructed for Capt. W. C. Kress of Lock Haven for president judge of the Twenty-fifth district.

The committee was in session just 20 minutes, the pre arranged program being carried out with neatness and dispatch. So far as we have been able to learn no Republicans had yet announced their candidacy in Elk county for judge and are reliably informed that the committee was summoned on Monday by telephone to meet in Ridgway yesterday to select three conferees to meet with the conferees of the other two counties of the district, to place in nomination a Republican candidate for president judge.

This unseemly action on the part of the Elk Republican county committee is being severely criticised by Republicans throughout the district and those who believe in fair play denounce such tactics as outrageous. People naturally look for the motive that prompts such proceedings and those in touch with the judgeship situation in this district do not have far to seek to find it. The power that is believed to have influenced the action of the Elk county committee is the same that dominates the politics of both parties in Elk county, and is now reaching out with a view of dictating the nomination for judge on both the Republican and Democratic tickets in the district. This once accomplished the balance of the program will unfold according to the wishes of the resourceful Elk Democratic machine that is just now trying to manipulate the politics of the Twenty-fifth udicial and also the Twenty-sixth senatorial district, of which Clinton county is a part."

"'What are the Republicans of Clinton county going to do about it?' is the question that comes home to them just now. The Elk Democratic machine is composed of astute politicians of experience and they have been quick to recognize that Judge Green is the most logical and strongest candidate that the Republicans can nominate for president judge, hence their activity in doing all they can to embarrass his candidacy and prevent his nomination if possible. If they can cause any dissension in the Republican ranks of Clinton county so much the better, for any seed of discord that can be sown among the Republicans will bear fruit for the Democratic nominees for president judge and State senator, and the men slated for these honors are Harry Alvin Hall, Esq , and his brother, Senator James K. P. Hall, both of Ridgway.

Are the Republicans of Clinton going to be caught in the trap so neatly prepared for them by the enemy, or will they rise in their might and assert their honest convictions as to whom they believe to be the strongest man to nominate for judge?

The Express favors the nomination of Judge Green, the appointee of Governor Pennypacker for the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Mayer, for it looks upon him as the most available candidate and the one with the best chance of being elected. He possesses the necessary qualifications for a good judge, is in the prime of life and comes from the part of the district that has just claims for recognition, We also candidly believe that his nomination will add strength to the whole Republican ticket, not only in Clinton county but in the three counties of the district. He has the unanimous endorsement of Cameron county, not by a set up committee, but by the act of a Republican county convention and if the Republicans of Clinton will declare for him at a special primary election, which it will be necessary to hold, his nomination will be secured. With united action on the part of the Republican voters of the district Judge Green can enter the campaign with splendid chances of being elected."

P. R. R., to Sell Mileage Books for $20 Hereafter

The Pennsylvania railroad, it is said on high authority, has decided to accede to the demands of the merchants and traveling men of the state for the abolishment of the $10 excess mileage book.

In response to the persistent agitation of the drummers of Pennsylvania, which has gone so far as to include a suit in the name of the commonwealth and a campaign for legislation fixing the maximum rate of fare on steam railroads throughout Pennsylvania at 2 cents a mile, the company, it has been learned, intends to sell books good for 1,000 miles at $20 flat.

Just when the new books will be issued has not not yet been decided, as quite a number of details must be arranged first and sufficient notice given the traveling public.

The Kidnaped Boy Found—The Abductor Railroaded Into Penitentiary.

After a week's confinement in an untenanted house in Philadelphia, subsisting on a bread and milk diet and suffering from exposure, little Freddie Muth, the 7 year old boy who was abducted last week, Tuesday was returned to his home in Columbia avenue, on Tuesday, Mayor Weaver and a number of city officials accompanying him to the door of a cab in waiting at the city hall. His abductor, John Kean was promptly tried and sentenced to 20 years solitary confinement is eastern penitentiary.

Big Contract Awarded Calder Brick Works

The Calder Brick and Coal Company has been awarded a very large contract by the city of Rochester, after a careful inspection and test of the paving brick. This necessitates a rapid completion of the improvements in order to keep up with the shipments. Several Rochester gentlemen, including the paving contractor, visited here yesterday and after a visit to the Company's plant expressed themselves well pleased. This means a big business. We congratulate Supt. Walker, who has labored hard, early and late, to push the the Calder product to the front. Other cities have made requests for brick contracts. Those who know, claim the Calder brick is hard to beat.

Train No. 68 was delayed fifteen minutes Saturday afternoon last on account of brakeman Webb Walize being thrown from the train. The rubber hee of his shoes caught on the platform and he was thrown to the ground, escaping with slight injuries.

When you pass by Geo. Metzger's store, stop and take a look at a piece of cement sidewalk put down by Fred Bliss almost two years ago. To prove the quality and durability of his walks, Mr. Bliss took this piece up and placed it on exhibition. It is as solid as rock can be.

Not a Boss ridden convention, did you say, Mr. Independent? Ask John E. Smith and Thos. H. Norris, candidates for Member of Assembly and Associate Judge, backed by Cameron county democrats until the Elk county Gang ordered them turned down. Keep your ear to the ground Mr. Independent and listen to the rumbling noise of dissatisfied democrats, who exclaim "Down with the Gang."

There is no reasonable excuse for any man to live in a town if he dosen't like it. If you have no word of commendation to say for your town, its institutions or people, emigrate. You won't stop the town clock by going away. The church bells will have the same musical ring, the little dogs will play just as well, and the pure air, bright sunshine and sparkling water will have the same health giving properties. Speak a good word for your neighbor, if you can; if you cannot, don't everlastingly enlarge on his faults. If you have become thoroughly disgusted, move away. Death of Isaac Floyd.

Our town received a sudden shock Thursday when the news came that Isaac Floyd was fatally injured at Laquin, Pa. He was taken to the Williamsport Hospital but lived only a few hours after reaching there. His wife and friends were telegraphed for but did not reach the hospital until after his death.

Mr. Floyd had been in the employ of Barclay Bros., many years and at the time of his death was loading a log loader for the Laquin Lumber Co. He was born and raised at Sinnamahoning and his many friends will miss him. He leaves a wife and two small children to mourn his death. Funeral services were held in the M. E. Church, Saturday, 2 p. m., by Rev. W. F. D. Noble, who delivered a most appropriate sermon. Burial was made at Wyside cemetery. There were many beautiful floral tributes from friends. The pall bears were men who had worked with him on the log train in Wykoff and Jerry Runs. The sympathy of his many friends is extended to his family in their sudden bereavement.

Word for Motor Car.

Every improvement in locomotion has caused both discomfort and danger. It is probable that the users of sledges viewed with indignation the advent of wheeled vehicles. Old prints show that the fast coaches scattered flocks and herds and left postchaises in the ditches, behind them. The railway was regarded for some time as an outrageous nuisance. It will be within the recollection of us all, says the Fortnightly Review, that for years bicyclists were detested, denounced and persecuted, and that every horse shied at every bicycle. In all these cases the public has had to grow accustomed to new conditions of traffic. So it is and will be with the automobile. To-day, in the minds of the unthinking, it is an offensive innovation; in a few years it will be regarded as an invaluable and indispensable condition of social and industrial life. The pedestrian will have to learn to look before he crosses the road, and that his proper place, as a rule, is not the middle of the road but the sidewalk. And it is permissible to hope that greater devotion to public welfare will in the future provide the children of the poor with other playgrounds than the public highways. Not long hence it will seem a condition of barbarism that horses should have been misused as they are in the omnibus and the night cab of to-day, and that they should have been allowed to deposit thousands of tons of offensive manure in the streets of the metropolis every day, causing an unending supply of septic dust, to be breathed by millions of people. Meanwhile, a certain amount of public discomfort and danger is unavoidable; it is one of the conditions of progress. To attempt to hinder this progress because of this temporary discomfort and danger would be—to quote a proverb of the people to whom we look with so much admiration just now, the Japanese—to "mend the horn and kill the ox."

Craze for the Rostrum.

The cable from St. Petersburg, referring to the douma, speaks of "the all-prevailing craze for the rostrum." It is no bad sign for members to want to speak. Many of them have something to say, and a tempting opportunity—the first of its kind in their lives—seems to present itself. Let us try to sympathize with men so placed, says the Washington Star. At the end of nearly a century and a quarter of popular government we have a John Wesley Gaines in our douma. In time this spirit will pass. Wait until the Russians learn the trick of inattention; of reading newspapers, or writing letters, or retiring for luncheon, while the talkfest is in progress, and the rush for the rostrum will not be so great. Orators cool off when interest flags. Not one in a thousand is so fond of the sound of his own voice as to take pleasure in addressing empty chairs.

At the meeting of the Wisconsin Society of Sons of the American Revolution in Milwaukee a few days ago Neal Brown, of Wausau, was one of the speakers. In the course of his humorous remarks he rather ruffled the feathers of some of his hearers by declaring that the Mayflower must have been loaded down with furniture; that nearly every household in the country contained a relic in the shape of a chair or a table that came to the country in that old historical ship, while nearly every American citizen traced his ancestry back to the passengers or crew or to men who who fought in the revolutionary army.

"San Francisco reports," says a contemporary, "that a number of persons who suffered from various ailments previously to the earthquake and fire in that city find themselves completely cured. One paralytic, who for 15 years had been crippled by his disease, is now 'entirely cured,' and numerous other recoveries have been recorded." Nor should it be forgotten that among the ailments cured by the earthquake is celibacy. There is evidence of many well authenticated instances of San Franciscans earthquaked into matrimony.

CONGRESSIONAL NEWS.

A meat inspection provision was completed by the house committee on agriculture and will be presented to the house for action at once, which it is declared by the committee will insure that American meats and meat products are healthful, clean and in every respect wholesome and fit for food.

President Roosevelt notified Chairman Wadsworth of the house agricultural committee that the substitute to the Beveridge amendment was "totally inadequate in its entirety." He asserted that while he might approve the agricultural appropriation bill he would attach to it a memorandum declaring the meat inspection provision to be insufficient. Such action would continue the present agitation and certainly would not tend to restore confidence in the products of the packing houses.

DUN'S TRADE BULLETIN.

Preparations for Fall and Winter Business are on a Huge Scale.

New York.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:

A moderate reduction in commercial activity is to be expected at this time of the year, but confidence in the future is so strong that there is evident reluctance to assume seasonably quiet conditions. This attitude is most pronounced in the industrial world, preparations for fall and winter distribution being on an unprecedented scale, and several leading producers announce that the customary summer shut down will be entirely omitted or curtailed to the extent necessitated by repairs. The heavy movement of merchandise is attested by an increase in railway earnings thus far reported for June of 11.8 per cent. over the corresponding period of 1905.

There is no diminution in the activity of steel mills and iron furnaces, and the consumption keeps pace with production and new business holds the date remote at which shipments can be made in most departments.

Failures this week numbered 183 in the United States, against 229 last year, and 15 in Canada, compared with 25 a year ago.

CONVICTED OF FRAUD.

A Baltimore Man Who Was Receiving Large Sums of Money Comes to Grief.

Baltimore, Md.—"Dr." Thomas H. White, who conducted a so-called "college" in this city in which he sold a "higher correspondence course" in spiritualism, magnetism, hypnotism and the "white and black art," was found guilty Friday by a jury in the United States district court on a charge of fraudulent use of the mails. Sentence was suspended pending motion for a new trial.

The trial lasted nearly two weeks and during its course witnesses from many distant states, including Texas and Minnesota, were examined for the government, all of whom testified that in response to advertisements in magazines they had sent by mail sums ranging from $2 to $7 for "life readings," charm parchments and a "magic Egyptian breastplate" advertised as a cure for every human ill, all of which had proven to be without any virtue or merit whatever.

When White was arrested by the postal authorities over $12,000 in cash was found at the "college." His business is said to have brought in from $1,200 to $1,500 a week.

PEPPERY LETTERS.

They Are Exchanged by President Roosevelt and Congressman Wadsworth.

Washington, D. C. — Chairman Wadsworth, of the house committee on agriculture, last night made public the correspondence between President Roosevelt and himself regarding the meat inspection bill prepared by the committee.

The president in his letter says that almost every change in the house amendment was for the worse as compared with the senate amendment and in his judgment so framed as to minimize the chance of rooting out the evils in the packing business.

In his reply Mr. Wadsworth declares the president is "very, very wrong" in his estimate of the committee's bill, calls attention to provisions in the bill and concludes with an expression of regret that the president should feel justified by innuendo at least in impugning the sincerity and the competency of a committee of the house of representatives. "You have no warrant for it," says Mr. Wadsworth in closing.

APPROVES A LOCK LEVEL CANAL.

The House of Representatives Declares Its Views on the Type of Isthmian Canal.

Washington, D. C.—By a vote of 110 to 36 the house on Friday at the end of a two hours' debate on the appropriations for the Panama canal decided that the canal should be of a lock type. After listening to the speech of Mr. Burton, of Ohio, in favor of the lock canal and consuming an hour in discussion of the amendment defining the type as presented by Mr. Littauer (N. Y.), the house in committee of the whole expressed its opinion in favor of the lock canal.

By a decisive vote the house refused to sanction the purchase of materials in the markets of the world for the Panama canal, the general position of the republicans being that as the canal was to be built by American taxes the American workingman and the American manufacturer should have the advantage.

Indictments in Land Fraud Cases.

Omaha, Neb.—The federal grand jury on Friday returned indictments against 13 prominent Nebraska cattlemen in connection with land fraud cases. The charges include conspiracy to defraud the government, subornation of perjury and illegal fencing of public lands. Over 450,000 acres of land in Sheridan and Cherry counties, Nebraska, are involved. All the men gave bonds.

Another Quake at Frisco.

San Francisco, Cal. — A severe earthquake was felt here at 9:41 last night. It lasted about five seconds. It was probably not heavy enough to do damage, though it may have caused some of the walls of ruined buildings to fall. Two more slight shocks were experienced at 11:35 o'clock.

Three Lives Lost in a Fire.

Fulton, N. Y. — Joseph Leroy, Richard Hinch and Lewis Holden, of this place, lost their lives Friday in a fire at the Allen excelsior and butter tub works.

IN STRICT CONFIDENCE.

Women Obtain Mrs. Pinkham's Advice and Help.

She Has Guided Thousands to Health.—How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Mrs. Alice Berryhill.

It is a great satisfaction for a woman to feel that she can write to another telling her the most private and confidential details about her illness, and know that her letter will be seen by a woman only.

Many thousands of cases of female diseases come before Mrs. Pinkham every year, some personally, others by mail. Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years under her direction and since her decease she has been advising sick women free of charge.

Mrs. Pinkham never violates the confidence of women, and every testimonial letter published is done so with the written consent or request of the writer, in order that other sick women may be benefited as she has been.

Mrs. Alice Berryhill, of 313 Boyce Street, Chattanooga, Tenn., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Three years ago life looked dark to me. I had ulceration and inflammation of the female organs and was in a serious condition.

"My health was completely broken down and the doctor told me that if I was not operated upon I would die within six months. I told him I would have no operation but would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. He tried to influence me against it but I sent for the medicine that same day and began to use it faithfully. Within five days I felt relief but was not entirely cured until I used it for some time.

"Your medicine is certainly fine. I have induced several friends and neighbors to take it and I know more than a dozen who had female troubles and who to-day are as well and strong as I am from using your Vegetable Compound."

Just as surely as Mrs. Berryhill was cured, will Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cure every woman suffering from any form of female ills.

If you are sick write Mrs. Pinkham for advice. It is free and always helpful.

COMMERCIAL CULLINGS.

The quantity of frozen meat exported from Argentina last year was 3,325,124 carcasses of sheep and lambs, and 1,922,757 quarters of beef.

The mineral production of France consists of lead, zinc, copper, coal and lignite, iron, antimony, arsenic and salt. An immense quantity of building stone and slate is quarried. The cement and phosphate production is large, aggregating sums far up in the millions of dollars. Coal is the chief mineral product.

In the year 1890 Germany sent about $10,710,000 in silks to the United States and Japan sent $1,190,000 worth. In 1904-5 Germany sent about $4,998,000 of silk goods to the United States, while Japan sent $5,593,000 worth. Japanese exports of silk goods have tripled within ten years, increasing from $7,470,000 in 1895 to $22,410,000 in 1904-5, and the ascending movement continues.

THE CELEBRATED CASE THAT WON CIVIL RIGHTS FOR INDIANS

Order Issued by Carl Schurz, While Secretary of the Interior, Brought Long-Standing Trouble to a Crisis.

SPLENDID ORATION MADE BY INDIAN CHIEF

Eloquence of Standing Bear, Pleading for His Own and His People's Rights, the Cause of An Ovation in Crowded Nebraska Court Room—Judge Dundy's Famous Decision.

Omaha.—The late Carl Schurz is best remembered in Omaha as the cause of the American Indians being admitted to full citizenship in this country—not through his taking the side of the red men in the long struggle, but because he, as secretary of the interior, issued an order which so aroused the west to the wrongs of the Indian that a crusade was started in Omaha which reached to all portions of the United States, lasted seven years, and ended by supreme court decisions and legislative enactments making the Indian as free as a white man if he choose to be so, and to accept the conditions of civilization.

Schurz had the order issued to Gen. Crook, then stationed at Omaha and commanding this department of the army, and immediately the cause of the Indian was taken up by Thomas H. Tibbles, late vice presidential candidate on the populist ticket; Gen. Crook, John L. Webster, Judge Dundy, and a score of other men prominent in the west.

Previous to the fight spoken of here every Indian in the United States was subject to the orders of the secretary of the interior. The government was an absolute autocrat over the destiny of the red man in the entire country.

Pitiful Funeral Procession.

Back in 1879 a pitiful procession wended its slow way northward from Indian territory, bound for the prairies of Nebraska. There were 30 Indians on foot and one old wagon, drawn by two wornout horses. In the wagon was the dead body of a child—an Indian boy. The leader of the little party was the father of the dead child; the famous Ponca Indian chief, Standing Bear, a few years later to be the best-known Indian in the entire world—and to speak in every city in the country in behalf of his people.

Standing Bear's party was en route to the Niobrara country, in northern Nebraska, to bury the child in the ancient burying grounds of the tribe. They had started on the long trip, although permission to leave the reservation in Indian Territory, on which they had been settled against their will, had been refused.

Formerly the Poncas lived in northern Nebraska, along the Niobrara river. They had fought the Sioux, in behalf of the white men, for years, and had lost 700 braves in the white man's behalf. For this a previous secretary of the interior had given them, in fee simple, full title to their reservation and lands.

Lands Taken from Poncas.

Then Mr. Schurz was made secretary, and at the point of the bayonet had driven the Poncas down into Indian Territory, depriving them of the lands for which they held government deeds. The Poncas were left months without rations in the new country, and more than one-third of them died while there.

And among those who died was the son of the old chief, Standing Bear. The chief refused to have the little body buried in the strange country, but instead, gathering a few members of his tribe, he started for the ancient hunting grounds of his tribe, intending to bury the child where generations of Ponca chiefs lay.

Schurz heard of the runaways, and through the war department telegraphed Gen. Crook, in Omaha, to arrest the Indians and return them to Indian Territory.

But the chief of the Omahas, Iron Eye, went to meet the Poncas and offered them a haven of refuge on the Omaha reservation.

"We have all the land Standing Bear and his people wish for; we have corn and meat in plenty; come live with us," said Iron Eye.

But the government, through Schurz, said "No."

So Crook arrested the old chief and brought him and his followers down to Omaha. And with them came the wagon bearing the dead child.

Standing Bear told Crook his individual story. The great Indian fighter knew the general history of the Indians and was already indignant at their treatment, but the treatment accorded Standing Bear was too much, and even the stern warrior rebelled.

Campaign Mapped Out.

That night Crook came into Omaha and had an all-night's conference with Tibbles, then an editorial writer on a newspaper. A campaign of Indians' rights was mapped out, and both men started out the next day to carry out their parts.

Crook was to delay returning the Indians to Indian Territory until a writ of habeas corpus could be asked for from the United States court on the ground that the constitution, in the fourteenth amendment, guaranteed to all persons born in the United States equal protection of the law.

Tibbles looked out for the legal end of the deal. He went to John L. Webster, then a struggling, unknown young lawyer, laid his case before him, and asked him to defend the rights of the Indian.

"There is no money in it, but there is fame, honor and glory," said Tibbles.

Webster took the case, and asked Judge A. J. Poppleton, then general counsel for the Union Pacific, to assist him and make the argument. Poppleton agreed, and then a writ was applied for in the United States court at Omaha, over which Judge Dundy presided.

General Crook Intercepted and Arrested Standing Bear.

Made Thousands of Citizens.

The case came to trial. It was the most notable trial ever brought in the west, and, in fact, the scope was as wide as any ever tried in the United States, for by its decision 700,000 people were made citizens.

Thomas H. Tibbles attended every session of that court. In his own words he describes it this way:

"The courtroom was crowded with fashionably dressed women, and the clergy, which had been greatly stirred by the incident; was there in force. Lawyers, every one in Nebraska and many from the big eastern cities; business men, Gen. Crook and his full staff, in their dress uniforms (this was one of the few times in his life that Crook wore his full dress in public), and the Indians themselves, in their gaudy colors. The courtroom was a galaxy of brilliancy.

"On one side stood the army officers, the brilliantly dressed women, and the white people; on the other was Standing Bear, in his official robes as chief of the Poncas, and with him were his leading men.

"Far back in the audience, shrinking from observation, was an Indian girl who afterward became famous as a lecturer in England and America. She was later known on both continents by a translation of her Indian name, In-sta-the-am-ba, Bright Eyes.

Long and Able Arguments.

"Attorney Poppleton's argument was carefully prepared, and consumed 16 hours in the delivering, occupying the attention of the court for two days. On the third day Mr. Webster spoke for six hours. And during all the proceedings the courtroom was packed with the beauty and culture of the city.

"Towards the close of the trial the situation became tense. As the wrongs inflicted on the Indians were described by the attorneys indignation was often at a white heat, and the judge made no attempt at suppressing the applause which broke out from time to time.

"For the department Mr. Lambertson made a short address, but was listened to in silence.

"It was late in the afternoon when the trial drew to a close. The excitement had been increasing, but it reached a height not before felt when Judge Dundy announced that Chief Standing Bear would be allowed to make a speech in his own behalf.

"Not one in that audience besides the army officers and Mr. Tibbles had ever heard an oration by an Indian chief. All of them had read of the eloquence of Red Jacket and Logan, and they sat there wondering whether the mild-looking old man, with the lines of suffering and sorrow on his furrowed brow and cheek, dressed in the full robes of an Indian chief, could make a speech at all.

"It happened that there was a good interpreter present—the son of Father Hamilton, a well-known missionary.

Standing Bear's Address.

"Standing Bear arose. Half-facing the audience he held out his right hand and stood motionless so long that the stillness of death which had settled down on the audience became almost unbearable. At last, looking up at the judge, he said:

"'That hand is not the color of yours, but if I prick it, the blood will flow and I shall feel pain. The blood is of the same color as yours. God made me, and I am a man. I never committed a crime. If I had, I would not stand here to make a defense. I would suffer the punishment and make no complaint.'

"Still standing, half-facing the audience, he looked past the judge out of a window as if gazing upon something far in the distance, and continued:

"'I seem to be standing on the high bank of a great river, with my wife and little girl by my side. I cannot cross the river, and impassable cliffs arise behind me. I hear the noise of great waters; I look and see a flood coming. The waters rise to our feet and then to our knees. My little girl stretches her hands toward me and says, "Save me!"

"'I stand where no member of my race ever stood before. There is no tradition to guide me. The chiefs who preceded me knew nothing of the circumstances that surround me. I hear only my little girl say, "Save me!"

Reached Heights of Eloquence.

"'In despair I look toward the cliffs behind me, and I seem to see a dim trail that may lead to a way of life. But no Indian ever passed over that trail. It looks to be impassable. I make the attempt. I take my child by the hand and my wife follows after me. Our hands and our feet are torn by sharp rocks and our trail is marked by our blood. At last I see a rift in the rocks. A little way beyond there are green prairies. The swift running water, the Niobrara, pours down between the green hills. There are the graves of my fathers. There again we will pitch our tepee and build our fires. I see the light of the world and of liberty just ahead.'

"The old chief became silent again, and, after an appreciable pause, he turned toward the judge with such a look of pathos and suffering on his face that none who saw it will forget, and said:

"'But in the center of the path there stands a man. Behind him I see soldiers in number like the leaves of the trees. If that man gives me permission I may pass on to life and liberty. If he refuses, I must go back and sink beneath the flood.'

"Then, in a lower tone:

"'You are that man.'

"There was silence in the court as the chief sat down. Some tears ran down over the judge's face. Gen. Crook leaned forward and covered his face with his hands. Some of the ladies sobbed.

The Audience Listened Spellbound to Standing Bear's Oration.

Orator Given Ovation.

"All at once that audience by one common impulse rose to its feet and such a shout went up as was never heard in a Nebraska courtroom. No one heard Judge Dundy say 'Court is adjourned.' There was a rush for Standing Bear. The first to reach him was Gen. Crook. I was second. The ladies flocked toward him, and for an hour Standing Bear held a reception.

"A few days afterward Judge Dundy handed down his famous decision in which he announced that an Indian was a 'person' and was entitled to the protection of the law. Standing Bear and his followers were set free, and with his old wagon and the body of his dead child he went back to the hunting grounds of his fathers and buried the boy with tribal honors. It was the very first time an Indian was ever permitted to appear in court and have his rights tried."

Up at the Ponca reservation there is an old white-headed Indian (he is the only known really white-headed Indian, too). It is old Standing Bear—old and decrepit. But he remembers Carl Schurz, and still blames him for much of the hardships through which the western Indians passed.

When told of the death of Schurz, the old man smoked a full minute before answering the one word of English which he ever uses:

"Good."

Duke of Wellington's Vanity.

Among the portraits at the Royal academy, London, there are some which could tell stories; some with little touches of idiosyncrasies of subjects no less than of painters. Is the story of Lawrence's portrait of the Duke of Wellington commonly known?

The duke had only one vanity—his wrist was like steel. Now, when he was given the sword of state to carry it was his infinite delight that he was able to carry it upright; all his predecessors had to slope it toward the shoulder. He would go down to posterity, he resolved, glorified by the power of his wrist.

In vain Sir Thomas Lawrence pointed out that, as a matter of art, it would never do; that the sight of a man perennially carrying a sword from the wrist would fatigue those who looked at his picture. The duke insisted upon having his way. Lawrence did manage to smuggle in a cushion upon which the duke seemed to rest his elbow, but close examination shows that arm and cushion do not meet.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price, 75c per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Everything comes quickly to those who refuse to wait.

Constipation makes the cold drag along. Get it out of you Take Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar cough syrup. Contains no opiates.

If you would avoid the fire keep out of the frying pan.

You cannot induce a lower animal to eat heartily when not feeling well. A sick dog starves himself and get well. The stomach once over worked, must have rest the same as your feet or eyes. You don't have to starve to rest your stomach. KODOL FOR DYSPEPSIA takes up the work for your stomach, digests what you eat and gives it a rest. Puts it back in condition again. You can't feel good with a disordered stomach. Try Kodol. Sold by R. C. Dodson.

Ability is measured by deeds rather than by intentions.

There is no need worrying along in discomfort because of a disordered digestion. Get a bottle of KODOL FOR DYSPEPSIA, and see what it will do for you. Kodol not only digests what you eat and gives that tired stomach a needed rest, but is a corrective of the greatest efficiency. Kodol relieves indigestion, dyspepsia, palpitation of the heart; flatulence, and sour stomach. Kodol will make your stomach young and healthy again. You will worry just in the proportion that your stomach worries you. Worry means the loss of ability to do your best. Worry is to be avoided at all times. Kodol will take the worry out of your stomach. Sold by R. C. Dodson.

It takes more than money to make the nightmare go.

HOW TO SELECT A JUDGE

LOCK HAVEN, PA., June 6, 1906.

Gentlemen:

The public conscience has been aroused during the last few months by revelations of greed and crookedness in commercial affairs, and call for prompt remedy. Every one feels that in such great public crisis he must appeal to the courts for relief and protection, and no little anxiety is felt lest our courts may have come under unwholesome influences. In other words, we feel more than ever the importance of an able and upright judiciary. It is unbearable to rest one's cause before a judge of uncertain stability.

This subject appeals with special force to the people of this judicial district at this time, because we shall be called upon to elect a president judge at the next election. We dare not be indifferent to the quality of the man who is to be put over us. It matters little to what political party he belongs, if he commands the respect of the community by reason of his ability and professional learning, of his broad and kindly nature, and of his innate honesty of purpose. Before such a judge you have no misgivings. A judge is necessarily a conspicuous figure and exerts a wide influence. He must have a strong sense of right and dare to enforce it, and a sense of personal responsibility and try to live it.

A court is not the place for the grinding of partisan axes, nor for juggling with liquor licenses. In the judgement of the writer, it is the duty of the court to grant liquor licenses but this should be done conscientiously, according to law, and with honest regard to public opinion. What is for the convenience of the public and the good of society?—this is the test.

Nor should a judge be a trimmer for special interests. Great influences are often brought to bear upon judges for the purpose of controlling their action. The influencing of judges is a studied art that does not always end in failure.

But how are we to know a man in advance? Easily. Watch his private life. Take account of the ordinary doings of his life. He is an example of some kind. What kind? What kind?

There is no more ready test of the fitness of a candidate for the judgeship than the manner of campaign he conducts. If he stoops to low methods, he thereby establishes his unfitness for high place. If, personally refraining from corrupt methods, he connives at mean things being done in his interest, he is the greater coward. What stepping stones to the bench! Sticky fingered administration of the law is abominable!

Yours Truly,
S. R. PEALE.

The Philadelphia Record has the following comment with referencee to Senator Peale's article:

Former State Senator S. R. Peale, of Lock Haven appeals to the people of the Twenty-fifth judicial district to see to it that the man who goes upon the bench occupied for nearly 40 years by the late Judge Mayer possesses a strong sense of right, as well as of personal responsibility and the courage to live up to those principles. The Senator, an honored member of the Clinton county bar and a life-long Democrat, believes it matters but little to what political party the judge belongs, but he should command public respect, should not be a trimmer for special interests, be clean in his private life and clean in his political methods. "Sticky-fingered administration of the law is abominable," says the Senator, aroused by recent revelation of greed and crookedness in public and commercial affairs.

The sincerest tribute that can be paid to superiority is imitation. The many imitations of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve that are before the public prove it the best. Ask for DeWitt's. Good for burns, scalds, chapped skin, eczema, tetter, cuts, bruises, boils and piles. Highly recommended and reliable. Sold by R. C. Dodson.

Even a cheap skate may disfigure much good ice.

Thousands annually bear witness to the efficiency of Early Risers. These pleasant, reliable little pills have long borne a reputation second to none as a laxative and cathartic. They are as staple as bread in millions of homes. Pleasant but effective. Will promptly relieve constipation without griping. Sold by R. C. Dodson.

Sour Stomach

No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headache, constipation, bad breath, general debility, sour risings, and catarrh of the stomach are all due to indigestion. Kodol relieves indigestion. This new discovery represents the natural juices of digestion as they exist in a healthy stomach, combined with the greatest known tonic and reconstructive properties. Kodol for dyspepsia does not only relieve indigestion and dyspepsia, but this famous remedy helps all stomach troubles by cleansing, purifying, sweetening and strengthening the mucous membranes lining the stomach.

Mr. S. S. Ball, of Ravenswood, W. Va., says:—"I was troubled with sour stomach for twenty years. Kodol cured me and we are now using it in milk for baby."

Kodol Digests What You Eat.

Bottles only. Relieves indigestion, sour stomach, belching of gas, etc.

John Spargo's powerful article, "Child Slaves of the Slums," in the Woman's Home Companion for July, is a further evidence of the earnestness with which that periodical has entered into the campaign against the evils of child labor. It is supplemented by an outline of the plans of the publishers for the organization of a national league for the abolition ol child slavery. But this serious purpose has not lessened the usual amount of reading matter of general interest in the magazine. "The Hat and the Man," by Henry Irving Dodge; "My Pirate," a delightful girlhood reminiscence," by Clara Morris; "From the Van Cleeve Jewel Box," by Anne O'Hagan; "A Nice Little Thing in Blue," by Miriam Michelson, and "The Adopted Doll" are among other stories that appeal to a variety of tastes. Timely questions are discussed by authoritative writers —"Shall We Reform Our Spelling?" by Mary Bronson Hartt; "Has the Club Woman Supplanted the Church Woman?" by Charlotte Perkins Gilman, and "Finances and the Girl on the Farm," by Anna Steese Richardson. Characteristic articles on summer cookery, fashions, etc., increase the value of the magazine as a household publication.

The Man on the Box

She brushed her cheeks with the poppies, and for a brief second the flowers threw a most beautiful color over her face and neck.

"What was your object in climbing on the box of my carriage and running away with it?"

Quick as a flash of light he conceived his answer. "Madam, it was a jest between me and some maids." He had almost said serving-maids, but the thought of Nancy checked his libel.

"Between you and some maids?"—faintly contemptuous. "Explain, for I believe an explanation is due me."

His gaze was forced to rove again. "Well, Madam, it is truly embarrassing. Two maids were to enter a carriage and I was to drive them away from the embassy and once I had them in the carriage I thought it would be an admirable chance to play them a trick."

"Pray since when have serving-maids been allowed exit from the main hall of the British embassy?"

Mr. Robert was positive that the shadow of a sarcastic smile rested for a moment on her lips. But it was instantly hidden under the poppies.

"That is something of which I have no intimate knowledge. A groom is not supposed to turn his head on the box unless spoken to. You will readily understand that, Madam. I made a mistake in the number. Mine was 71, and I answered number 17. I was confused.

"I dare say. Seventy-one," she mused. "It will be easy to verify this, to find out whose carriage that was."

Mr. Robert recognized his mistake, but he saw no way to rectify it. She stood silently gazing over his shoulder, into the fields beyond.

"Perhaps you can explain to me that remarkable episode at the carriage door? I should be pleased to hear your explanation."

It had come,—the very thing he had dreaded had come. He had hoped that she would ignore it. "Madam, I can see that you have sent for me out of curiosity only. If I offered any disrespect to you last night, I pray you to forgive me. For, on my word of honor, it was innocently done." He bowed, and placed his hand on the knob of the door.

"Have a little patience. I prefer myself to forget that disagreeable incident." The truth is, "on my word of honor," coming from a groom, sounded strange in her ears; and she wanted to learn more about this fellow. "Mr Osborne what were you before you became a groom?"

"I have not always been a groom, it is true, Madam. My past I prefer to leave in obscurity. There is nothing in that past, however, of which I need be ashamed;"—and unconsciously his figure become more erect.

"IS YOUR NAME OSBORNE?"

"Is your name Osborne?"

"No, Madam, it is not. For my family's sake, I have tried to forget my own name." (I'll wager the rascal never felt a qualm in the region of his conscience.)

It was the truth which was not truth that won his battle.

"You were doubtless discharged last night?"

"I did not return to ascertain, madam, I merely sent for my belongings."

"You have recommendations?"—presently.

"I have no recommendations whatever, Madam. If you employ me, it must be done on your own responsibility and trust in human nature. I can only say, Madam, that I am honest, that I am willing, that I possess a thorough knowledge of horse-flesh."

"It is very unusual," she said, searching him to the very heart with her deep blue eyes. "For all I know you may be the greatest rascal, or you may be the honestest man, in the world." His smile was so frank and engaging that she was forced to smile herself. But she thought of something, and frowned. "If you have told me the truth, so much the better; for I can easily verify all you have told me. I will give you a week's trial. After all,"—indifferently—"what I desire is a capable servant. You will have to put up with a good deal. There are days when I am not at all amiable, and on these days I do not like to find a speck of dust on the metals or a blanket that has not been thoroughly brushed. As for the animals, they must always shine like satin. This last is unconditional. Besides all this our force of servants is small. Do you know anything about serving?"

"Very little." What was coming now?

"The chef will coach you. I entertain some, and there will be times when you will be called upon to wait on the table. Come with me and I will show you the horses. We have only five, but my father takes great pride in them. They are all thoroughbreds." "Like their mistress," was Warburton's mental supplementary.

"Father hasn't ridden for years, however. The groom I discharged this morning was capable enough on the box, but he was worse than useless to me in my morning rides. I ride from nine till eleven, even Sundays sometimes. Remain here till I return."

As she disappeared Warburton drew in an exceedingly long breath and released it slowly. Heavens, what an ordeal! He drew the back of his hand across his forehead and found it moist. Not a word about the fine: he must broach it and thank her. Ah, to ride with her every morning, to adjust her stirrup, to obey every command to which she might give voice, to feel her small boot repulse his palm as she mounted; Heaven could hold nothing greater than this. And how easily a woman may be imposed upon! Decidedly, Mr. Robert was violently in love.

When she returned there was a sunbonnet on her head, and she had pinned the poppies on her breast. (Why? I couldn't tell you, unless when all is said and done, be he king or valet, a man is always a man; and if perchance he is blessed with good looks, a little more than a man. You will understand that in this instance I am trying to view things through a woman's eyes.) With a nod she bade him precede her and they went out toward the stables. She noted the flat back, the square shoulders, the easy, graceful swing of the legs.

"Have you been a soldier?" she asked suddenly.

He wheeled. His astonishment could not be disguised quickly enough to escape her vigilant eyes. Once more he had recourse to the truth.

"Yes, Madam. It was as a trooper that I learned horsemanship."

"What regiment?"

"I prefer not to say,"—quietly.

"I do not like mysteries,"—briefly.

"Madam, you have only to dismiss me, to permit me to thank you for paying my fine and to reimburse you at the earliest opportunity."

She closed her lips tightly. No one but herself knew what had been on the verge of passing across them.

"Let us proceed to the stables," was all she said. "If you prove yourself a capable horseman, that is all I desire."

The stable-boy slid back the door and the two entered. Warburton glanced quickly about; all was neatness. There was light and ventilation, too, and the box-stalls were roomy. The girl stopped before a handsome bay mare which whinnied when it saw her. She laid her cheek against the animals nose and talked that soft jargon so embarrassing to man and so intelligible to babies and pet animals. Lucky horse! he thought! but his face expressed nothing.

"This is Jane, my own horse, and there are few living things I love so well. Remember this. She is a thoroughbred, a first class hunter; and I have done more than five feet on her at home."

She moved on, Warburton following soberly and thoughtfully. There was a good deal to think of just now. The more he saw of this girl, the less he understood her purpose in hiring him. She couldn't possibly know anything about him, who or what he was. With his beard gone he defied her to recognize in him the man who traveled across the Atlantic with her. A high-bred woman, such as she was, would scarcely harbor any kind of feelings toward a man who had acted as he was acting. If any man had kissed Nancy the way he had kissed her, he would have broken every bone in his body or hired some one to do it. And she had paid his fine at the police-station and had hired him on probation! Truly he was in the woods and there wasn't a sign of blazed trail. (It will be seen that my hero hadn't had much experience with women. She knew nothing of him whatever. She was simply curious and brave enough to attempt to have this curiosity gratified. Of course, I do not venture to say that, had he been coarse in appearance, she would have had anything to do with him.)

"This is Dick, my father's horse,"—nodding toward a sorrel, large and well set-up. "He will be your mount. The animal in the next stall is Pirate."

Pirate was the handsomest black gelding Warburton had ever laid eyes on.

"What a beauty!" he exclaimed enthusistaically, forgetting that grooms should be utterly without enhusiasm. He reached out his hand to pat the black nose, when a warning cry restrained him. Pirate's ears lay flat.

"Take care! He is a bad-tempered animal. No one rides him and we keep him only to exhibit at the shows. Only half a dozen have ridden him with any success. He won't take a curb in his mouth and he always runs away. It takes a very strong man to hold him in. I really don't believe that he's vicious, only terribly mischievous, like a bullying boy."

"I should like to ride him."

The girl looked at her new groom in a manner which expressed frank astonishment. Was he in earnest, or was it mere bravado? An idea came to her, a mischievous idea.

"If you can sit on Pirate's back for ten minutes there will not be any question of probation. I promise to engage you on the spot, recommendation or no recommendation." Would he back down?

"Where are the saddles Madam?" he asked calmly, though his blood moved faster.

"On the pegs behind you."—becoming interested. "Do you really intend to ride him?"

"With your permission."

"I warn you that the risk you are running is great."

"I am not afraid of Pirate, Madam," in a tone which implied that he was not afraid of any horse living. The spirit of antagonism rose up in him, that spirit of antagonism of the human against the animal, that eternal ambition of the one to master the other. And besides, I'm not sure that James didn't want to show off before the girl—another very human trait in mankind. For my part, I wouldn't give yesterday's rose for a man who wouldn't show off once in a while, when his best girl is around and looking on.

"On your head be it, then"—a sudden nervousness seizing her. Yet she was as eager to witness the encounter as he was to court it. "William!" she called. The stable-boy entered, setting aside his broom. "This is James, the new groom. Help him to saddle Pirate."

"Saddle Pirate, Miss Annesley!" cried the boy, his mouth open and his eyes wide.

"You see?" said the girl to Warburton.

"Take down that saddle with the hooded stirrups," said Warburton, briefly. He would ride Pirate now, even if Pirate had been sired in Beelzebub's stables. He carefully inspected the saddle, the stirrup-straps and the girth. "Very good, indeed. Buckles on saddles are always a hidden menace and a constant danger. Now, bring out Pirate, William."

William brought out the horse, who snorted when he saw the saddle on the floor and the curb on Warburton's arm.

"There hasn't been anybody on his back for a year, sir, not since last winter. He's likely to give you trouble," said the boy. "You can't put that curb on him, sir: he won't stand for it a moment. Miss Annesley, hadn't you better step outside? He may start to kicking. That heavy English snaffle is the best thing I know of. Try that, sir. And don't let him get his head down, or he'll do you. Whoa!" as Pirate suddenly took it into his head to leave the barn without any one's permission.

The girl sprang lightly into one of the empty stalls and waited. She was greatly excited, and the color in her cheeks was not borrowed from the poppies. She saw the new groom take Pirate by the forelock, and, quicker than words can tell, Mr. Pirate was angrily champing the cold bit. He reared. Warburton caught him by the nose and the neck. Pirate came down, trembling with rage.

"Here boy; catch him here," cried Warburton. William knew his business, and he grasped the bridle close under Pirate's jaws. "That's it. Now hold him."

Warburton picked up the saddle and threw it over Pirate's glossy back. Pirate waltzed from side to side and shook his head wickedly. But the man that was to mount him knew all these signs. Swiftly he gathered up the end of the belly-band strap and ran it through the iron ring. In and out he threaded it, drawing it tighter and tighter. He leaped into the saddle and adjusted the stirrups, then dismounted.

"I'll take him now, William," said James smiling.

"All right, sir," said William, glad enough to be relieved of all further responsibility.

James led Pirate into the small court and waited for Miss Annesley, who appeared in the doorway presently.

"James, I regret that I urged you to ride him. You will be hurt," she said. Her worry was plainly visible on her face.

James smiled his pleasantest and touched his hat.

"Very well, then; I have warned you. If he bolts, head him for a tree. That's the only way to stop him."

James shortened the bridle-rein to the required length, took a firm grip on Pirate's mane, and vaulted into the saddle. Pirate stood perfectly still. He shook his head. James talked to him and patted his sleek neck, and touched him gently with his heel. Then things livened up a bit. Pirate waltzed, reared and plunged and started to do the pas seul on the flower-beds. Then he immediately changed his mind. He decided to re-enter the stables.

"Don't let him get his head down!" yelled William, nimbly jumping over a bed of poppies and taking his position beside his mistress.

"The gates, William! The gates!" cried the girl, excitedly. "Only one is open. He will not be able to get through."

William scampered down the driveway and swung back the iron barrier. None too soon! Like a black shadow, Pirate flashed by, his rider's new derby rolling in the dust.

The girl stood in the doorway, her hands pressed against her heart. She was as white as the clouds that sailed overhead.

CHAPTER X.

PIRATE.

On the opposite side of the road there was a stone wall about five feet in height; beyond this was a broad, rolling field and farther on a barbwire fence and a boggy stream which oozed its way down toward the Potomac. Far away across the valley the wooded hills were dying and withering and thinning, with splashes of yellow and red. A flock of birds speckled the fleecy October clouds, and a mild breeze sent the grasses shivering.

Toward the wall Pirate directed his course. Warburton threw back his full weight. The effort had little or no effect on Pirate's mouth. His rider remembered about the tree, but the nearest was many yards away. Over the wall they went and down the field. Pirate tried to get his head down but he received a check. Score one for the man. Warburton, his legs stiffened in the stirrups, his hands well down, his breath coming in gasps, wondered where they would finally land. He began to use his knees and Pirate felt the pressure. He didn't like it at all. Oddly enough, Warburton's leg did not bother him as he expected it would, and this gave him confidence. On, on; the dull pounding of Pirate's feet, the flying sod, the wind in his face: and when he saw the barb-wire fence, fear entered into him. An inch too low, a stumble and serious injuries might result. He must break Pirate's gait.

He began to saw cow-boy fashion. Pirate grew indignant: he was being hurt. His speed slackened none, however; he was determined to make that fence if it was the last thing he ever did. He'd like to see any man stop him. He took the deadly fence as with the wings of a bird. But he found that the man was still on his back. He couldn't understand it. He grew worried. And then he struck the red-brown muck bordering the stream. The muck flew, but at every bound Pirate sank deeper, and the knees of his rider were beginning to tell. Warburton, full of rage, yet not unreasonable rage, quickly saw his chance. Once more he threw back his weight; this time to the left. Pirate's head came stubbornly around; his gait was broken, he was floundering in the stream. Now Warburton used his heels savagely. He shortened the reins and whacked Mr. Pirate soundly across the ears. Pirate plunged and reared, and after devious evolutions, reached solid ground. This time his head was high in the air, and, try as he would, he could not lower his neck a solitary inch.

He Had Preferences.

Squire Lord, of local fame in Effingham, N. H., 50 years ago, had accumulated, by all sorts of methods, a fortune for the times and place. Keeping the country store, being pratically the "bank" of those parts, and increasing wealth beyond expenditures had nourished an ambition to live in a place larger and with more social opportunities than the little village afforded. So he packed up one autumn, took a house in Portland, which was the town o' the world to country people then, and with his family started in to cut a dash.

To his chagrin, he found he was one of many in that place, and not a scrape or bow was coming his way. Christmas saw him back, bag and baggage in Effingham, and that evening in his store, to the inquiry of one of the village loafers, "Why'd ye come back, squire, fore you'd calculated?" he replied:

"I've had enough of that place. Yer see, I'd rather be king among hogs than a hog among kings."—Boston Herald

An Oxford Man.

Sir Charles Kirkpatrick of the visiting English football team was drinking milk with his luncheon in a Philadelphia hotel.

"Milk is a good drink," a visitor said.

"Yes," agreed the other, "and whenever I take it I think of curate in Surrey, near my Crawley place.

"This curate had a small salary and a fine lot of cows. He decided, therefore, to open a dairy. So he rigged up a little shop and bought a wagon, and on his sign his name appeared, 'John Vincent, M. A.' He was an Oxford man, you see, and proud of his degree.

"But one morning he overheard two farm hands talking before the shop.

"'What does the "M. A." mean on that there sign?' said the first.

"'Milk 'Awker, o'course,' the other answered."

The Bishop's £1,000.

The bishop of London tells the following story: "I was sitting in my room one morning very busy, when I was told that a lady wanted to see me. I was very busy and almost said at first, 'Oh, I'm too busy to see anyone this morning.' But I thought, and said, 'No, I have made a rule never to refuse to see anybody, in case it is somebody in trouble.' So I said, 'Let the lady come upstairs.' She came, and the first thing she said to me was this: 'I was going to ask you whether you can find a use in your work for £1,000?' I said, 'It is the very thing I have been wondering all the morning how to get.' I showed her exactly what I was going to spend her £1,000 on, and the whole scheme was carried out."—London Standard.

Sister Liked Him.

"Have you any reason to believe that your sister likes me, Willie?"

"Course she does: Just yesterday I heard her say, 'Nobody could help likin' the dear old easy mark.'"—Cleveland Plaindealer.

Sometimes—not always—the dissenting opinion seems much stronger than the opinion that makes the decision.

"Whistling for half an hour after meals," says a well known woman whistler, "is the best possible aid to digestion."

What has become of the old-fashioned boy who believed that if a turtle got hold of his toe it would not let go until Sunday?

The wheat crop of the Punjab for this year has broken all records, being 500,000 tons in excess of the previous best crop.

The jokers are already shooting paragraphs at San Francisco; but none of those who are left in the Golden Gate city laughs at them.

The lawyers are said to be still in business in San Francisco, though there doesn't appear to be much left there to go to law about.

Freiherr von Hohenstauffen, of the Reichstag, has introduced a bill prohibting beer drinking at German universities. And with that name at that!

A Milwaukee man obtained a divorce because his wife drank a gallon of whisky a day. Most persons will be surprised to learn that anything except beer is drank in that city.

Gen. Jiminez having enlisted six men and a brigadier general, is only waiting contributions for the purchase of another mule when the invasion of Santo Domingo will be undertaken.

They do say that the hello girls on the line between the White House and the senate are quite willing to have the helloless system put in. Otherwise they want thick ear pads.

A Harvard professor says that 30 per cent. of those who try to enter the university fail in English. Harvard ought to try the young men on carpenter work, typewriting and cookery. Our school systems are spending a great deal of money on manual training and "fads."

There have been only two great Chinatowns in the big cities of the Caucasian world. These were the Chinatown of New York, where 60,000 Celestials live, and the Chinatown of San Francisco, with a smaller number. They were two sights which most excited the interest of foreign visitors to those cities.

Says a recent news item in an English newspaper: "A Mrs. Howling, of Penge, dreamed that she saw her little girl washed up on Hastings beach and the body taken away on a tarpaulin. Two days later the child was knocked down by a pantechnicon and its wheels passed over her. Bystanders brought a tarpaulin, upon which the child was taken to the Beckenham cottage hospital."

A quain ceremony is witnessed in parts of Normandy twice a year. It is the "blessing of the beasts." The cows, asses, and a few thoroughbred horses which are raised in that part of France are brought together in front of the church, whence issues a procession of gaily-dressed peasants to the sound of a chant sung by the priest and people. Then the pastor sprinkles a few drops of water on the head of each animal.

Illuminated post cards are still popular and acceptable, too, when they have something good besides the picture. A Cincinnatian received a da...y specimen a few days ago. It carried that wonderfully popular toast, "There is so much that is bad in the best of us and so much good in the worst of us, that it hardly behooves any of us to talk bad about the rest of us." Some of our publishers might better their issues of postals by using fine selections from good literature.

Old Khedive Ismail's expensive compliment to the then Empress Eugenie, 36 years ago—the construction of a fine carriage road from Cairo to the pyramids and the Sphinx of Gizeh, so that she might drive instead of riding on a donkey—has been copied by the present khedival government for the princess of Wales. For her a carriage road has been built from Bedrasheen to the pyramids and ruins at Sakkara. This road, like the one made for the empress of the French, will be serviceable to ordinary tourists henceforth.

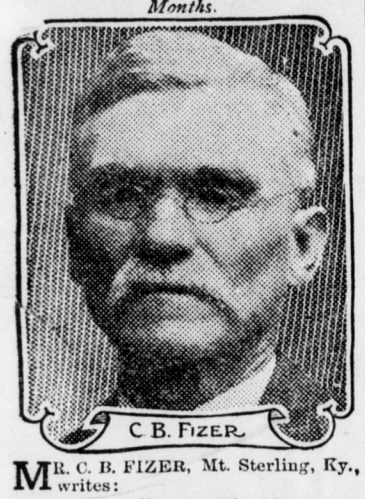
KIDNEY TROUBLE

Suffered Two Years—Relieved in Three Months.



MR. C. B. FIZER, Mt. Sterling, Ky., writes:

"I have suffered with kidney and bladder trouble for ten years past.

"Last March I commenced using Peruna and continued for three months. I have not used it since, nor have I felt a pain.

"I believe that I am well and I therefore give my highest commendation to the curative qualities of Peruna."

Pe-ru-na for Kidney Trouble.

Mrs. Geo. H. Simser, Grant, Ontario, Can., writes:

"I had not been well for about four years. I had kidney trouble, and, in fact, felt badly nearly all the time.

"This summer I got so very bad I thought I would try Peruna, so I wrote to you and began at once to take Peruna and Manalin.

"I took only two bottles of Peruna and one of Manalin, and now I feel better than I have for some time.

"I feel that Peruna and Manalin cured me and made a different woman of me altogether. I bless the day I picked up the little book and read of your Peruna."

It is the business of the kidneys to remove from the blood all poisonous materials. They must be active all the time, else the system suffers. There are times when they need a little assistance.

Peruna is exactly this sort of a remedy. It has saved many people from disaster by rendering the kidneys service at a time when they were not able to bear their own burdens.

GIVE THE BOY A ROOM.

Let the Boy Have a Retreat of His Own Which He May Arrange to Suit His Own Tastes.

You say it is too expensive to give each boy a room for his hobbies and belongings, but after all it will not cost as much as the Turkish rugs and costly furniture you are thinking of buying for the parlor this spring. Do you owe most to your neighbors, or to your own bright, noisy boys.

We wish that every boy might have a room of his own, and be responsible for its care. The floor should be of hardwood and uncarpeted, the furniture solid and substantial. Let the boy have it decorated according to his own fancy. It will be interesting to watch the growth of his artictic ideas.

There should be a bookcase, or desk, a big solid table in the middle of the room, with plenty of space for Sam's printing press or Robert's box of tools or checkers and chessboards and other harmless games. The boys should be allowed to invite their friends to come to this room, and now and then a treat may be provided for them.

No doubt some one will ask what is the use of spoiling boys in this way, or of furnishing them with company and games.

Simply because they will have the amusement, the games and the company somewhere; and where is a more suitable place than under the parental roof? No money can be wasted which is spent in developing a boy's character or which makes his home and family more dear to him.

Can you expect your boy to be charitable when you do not hesitate to talk before him of your neighbor?

Can you expect your boy to be free from envy when, in a fault finding way you compare your circumstances with those of your richer neighbor?

Can you expect your boy to tell the truth, when to save a little trouble you tell a falsehood?

Can you expect your boy to be respectful to you when he hears you laugh at another's peculiarities?

Can you expect your boy's religion to be one to live by when he can see that it has no part in your daily life?

Boys brought up in a loving home, where they feel that they are important members of the family, seldom have bad habits.—Prairie Farmer.

CULTIVATING THE CHILD.

Give Him All Desirable Traits by Patiently, Persistently Guiding in Early Formative Period.

There is not a single desirable attribute which, lacking in a plant, may not be bred into it. Choose what improvement you wish in a flower, a fruit, or a tree, and by crossing, selection, cultivation and persistence you can fix this desirable trait irrevocably. Pick out any trait you want in your child, granted that he is a normal child—I shall speak of the abnormal later—be it honesty, fairness, purity, lovableness, industry, thrift, what not. By surrounding this child with sunshine from the sky and your own heart, by giving the closest communion with nature, by feeding them well-balanced, nutritious food, by giving them all that is implied in healthful environmental influences, and by doing all in love, you can thus cultivate in this child and fix there for all their life all of these traits. Naturally not always to the full in all cases at the beginning of the work, for heredity will make itself felt first, and, as in the plant under improvement, there will be certain strong tendencies to reversion to former ancestral traits; but, in the main, with the normal child, you can give him all these traits by patiently, persistently guiding him in these early formative years.

And, on the other side, give him foul air to breathe, keep him in a dusty factory or an unwholesome school room or a crowded tenement up under the hot roof; keep him away from the sunshine, take away from him music and laughter and happy faces; cram his little brains with so-called knowledge, all the more deceptive and dangerous because made so apparently adaptable to his young mind; let him have associates in his hours out of school, and at the age of ten you have fixed in him the opposite traits. He is on his way to the gallows. You have perhaps seen a prairie fire sweep through the tall grass across a plain. Nothing can staad before it, it must burn itself out. That is what happens when you let the weeds grow up in a child's life, and then set fire to them by wrong environment.—The Century

A Tasty Chop for Invalid.

Trim away every particle of fat from a neck or loin chop, melt a piece of butter on a plate, sprinkle the chop with pepper and salt; dip both sides in the butter, and sprinkle a little lemon juice over the top, leaving it in the butter for at least two hours. Put the yolk of an egg on a plate, with a teaspoonful of grated cheese. Mix it together, and mask the chop freely with the mixture. Have ready some boiling dripping in a frying-pan, lay in the chop, and let it cook thoroughly, first on one side, and then on the other; it will take quite six minutes to cook, the fat being kept boiling the whole of the time. Drain it on a piece of clean paper, and serve on a little mound of nicely mashed potato, as hot as possible.

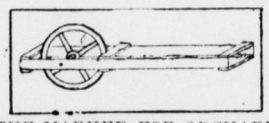
HORTICULTURE

MARKING AN ORCHARD.

How Rapid Work May Be Done with an Old Wheel and Money Saved.

The diagram below shows wheel for laying out ground for orchard that I have used for some years. The drawing shows for itself how made; two boards 10 feet long, 1x4, put together as shown, with wheel at one end, and wide enough apart at the other for a man to stand inside, and draw it. An old wheelbarrow wheel is what I use.



THE MARKER FOR ORCHARD.

When you have your ground, say 10 acres more or less, ready, establish base lines, writes a Michigan orchardist to the Rural New Yorker. Then draw this wheel from one tree point to one on opposite side of field back and forth, until marked one way. Then mark the field the other way, and at the point where the wheel marks cross is the place for a tree. The hole is to be dug there, and the tree is to be set on a line each way with the mark. Not a stake need be set except to go by in marking. One man can work ground for 1,000 trees in eight hours, and the trees will be in perfect line each way. Any man who can follow the line of two stakes can do the marking. A variation of a man's body from side to side does not affect the wheel 8 or 10 feet back, and the wheel mark is so unlike any other mark that there is no danger of losing the line. In setting 1,400 peach trees I saved at least $10 by this method, beside having every tree exactly in line.

FIGHTING CANKER WORMS.

Interesting Experiment by Prof. Slingerland at Cornell University.

The class taking advanced work in economic entomology at Cornell, N. Y., made an interesting experiment, writes Prof. Slingerland in the Cornell Countryman.

For several years a group of large elm trees about a mile from the university campus have been nearly defoliated by hordes of spring canker-worm caterpillars. These little measuring-worms hatch in May from eggs laid on the bark by moths that emerge in March and April from pupae in the soil beneath the trees.

The male moths have well-developed wings and fly readily, but the females are wingless and are thus obliged to crawl up the trees and deposit their eggs on the bark of the branches. The ascent is always made at night. Various devices, such as sticky bands, and wire, tin or stiff paper barriers, have been used on the trunks of trees to prevent the ascent of the wingless female moths.

Recently a fly-paper manufacturer has made a tree-tanglefoot mixture, and with a liberal sample furnished by the firm, several of the infested elm trees were treated. One tree was more than two feet in diameter and the bark was very rough. It took several pounds of the tanglefoot to make a complete band six or eight inches wide around the trunk, several feet from the ground. The application was made on March 15, just before the moths began "running" up the trees.

Great masses of the wingless female moths were found March 31 on the lower edge of the sticky band, and thousands of flying males were caught all over the band. A few females were able to get over the band where dead males had formed narrow bridges across the tanglefoot. Several pints or many thousands of the females were caught and killed by the band on this one large tree. As each female may lay 200 or more eggs, the tree was relieved from feeding hundreds of thousands of canker-worms in May. The experiment was thus a striking success and has furnished a valuable object lesson."

Yes, and it should furnish a useful object lesson to the farmer. The spring spring canker-worm often attacks other trees besides elms—apple trees, for instance. If the tanglefoot preparation is not readily obtainable, other sticky substances may be used. Tar, printers' ink, thick molasses, bird-lime, or bands of fly-paper, are all more or less useful for the purpose.

If fly-paper is used, remember that it should be at least five inches wide, and must fit close to the bark. On rough-bark trees, the bark must either be scraped smooth where the band is to go, or all depressions must be filled with clay or putty, so as to make a smooth surface on which to fasten the sticky band.

Coddling moth: This is the pest that causes wormy apples. As soon as the blossoms fall, spray the trees with the Bordeaux-arsenate mixture. Repeat in ten days. Now don't delay. The work must be done right after the falling of the blossoms.—Prairie Farmer.

Head your trees low so that you won't have to call out the fire department with the extension ladder when you go to spray your orchard.

SEVEN YEARS AGO

A Rochester Chemist Found a Singularly Effective Medicine.

William A. Franklin, of the Franklin & Palmer Chemical Co., Rochester, N. Y., writes:

"Seven years ago I was suffering very much through the failure of the kidneys to eliminate the uric acid from my system. My back was very lame and ached if I overexerted myself in the least degree. At times I was weighed down with a feeling of languor and depression and suffered continually from annoying irregularities of the kidney secretions. I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and began using them. I found prompt relief from the aching and lameness in my back, and by the time I had taken three boxes I was cured of all irregularities."

DIAMOND DEALER'S MISTAKE

One of His Own Gems, But He Failed to Recognize the Sparkler.

"Will you please examine this diamond," said a man who had stepped into a jeweler's shop, "and tell me what you think of it? If it is a good stone, I think I will buy it."

The jeweler took the gem, which was unset, and looked at it critically for a moment. Then in a confidential tone he said:

"Well, to tell you the truth, that isn't a very good stone. It hasn't much fire, it is badly cut, and there is something here very much like a flaw." Then he held the diamond under a microscope and examined it carefully, finally observing: "No, it isn't exactly a flaw, but I shouldn't call it a perpect stone. Now, if you want something really fine, here—"

"Excuse me," the other man interrupted. "I don't think I'll buy a diamond to-day. This is a diamond that one of your assistants let me take Saturday on approval. I deposited $40 on it. Please let me have my money, and we will declare the deal off."

BITS FOR BACHELORS.

Many men think themselves self-made who are really marriage-made.

The man who avoids matrimony on account of the cares of wedded life rivals the wiseacre who secured himself against corns by having his legs amputated.

Don't marry for beauty alone. Socrates called beauty "a short-lived tyranny," and Theophrastus pronounced it "a silent cheat." The man who marries for beauty alone is as silly as the man who would buy a house because it had fine flowers in the front garden.

It is in life as it is with a kite; it will not fly very high until it has a string tying it down. And so the man who is tied down by half a dozen responsibilities and their mother will make a higher and stronger fight than the bachelor who, having nothing to keep him steady, is always floundering in the mud.

CONCERNING CLOCKS.

Never allow the clock to run down. It responds to regular attention just as surely as a human being does and keeps its course truly when made to follow its endless routine.

The hands of a clock should always be turned forward. To set the hands by reversing the right-hand motion is to loosen delicate screws that hold them within reach of various cog slips.

Never allow the clock to be moved from the position where it is well balanced. A deviation of two or three minutes a day from the correct time may be the result of an uneven placing of the clock, and once it is properly adjusted it should not be shifted for dusting or for artistic purposes. This is especially true of clocks that have a pedulum.

LIMB WASTED WITH ECZEMA.

Suffered Untold Agonies—Doctor Said It Was the Worst Case—Wonderful Cure by Cuticura.

"I used the Cuticura Remedies for eczema. The doctor said it was the worst case he ever saw. It was on both limbs, from the knees to the ankles. We tried everything the doctors knew of, but the Cuticura Remedies did the most good. I was obliged to lie with my limbs higher than my head, for the pain was so terrible I could not walk. I suffered untold agonies. One limb wasted away a great deal smaller than the other, there was so much discharge from it. I found the Cuticura Remedies very soothing, and I still keep them in the house. I am very thankful to say that I am cured. I found the Cuticura Remedies all that you say they are. I hope that you may be spared many years to make the Cuticura Remedies for the benefit of persons suffering from the torture of skin diseases, such as I had. Mrs. Golding, Box 8, Ayr, Ontario, Canada, June 6, 1905."

How to Break up a Cold.

It may be a surprise to many to learn that a severe cold can be completely broken up in one or two days' time. The first symptoms of a cold are a dry, loud cough, a profuse watery discharge from the nose, and a thin, white coating on the tongue. When Chamberlain's cough remedy is taken every hour on the first appearance of these symptons, it counteracts the effect of the cold and restores the system to a healthy condition within a day or two. For sale by L. Taggart; J. E. Smith, Sterling Run; Crum Bros., Sinnamahoning.

Mail messenger English reports a very heavy forwarding of mail on the rural route for the past week. This is a very good sign. More power to Mr. English and his gray horse.

President Farrell has presented the Athletic Club with with a life sized picture of Carry Nation done in oil. This is a very appropriate gift and is highly appreciated.

Call on Wm. Logue for anything you want in the grocery line. He has every thing from a Welsh rabbit to a barrel of salt pork:

John F. Carson has returned from Cambria county where he has been employed pealing bark. John says the mountains are so steep that they have to use telegraph pole climbers to get up them, but they can easily slide down. The only trouble is that shoe leather costs more down there and eats up the profits. He says old Cameron county is good enough for him.

The Huntley Athletic Club held their regular weekly smoker at the hall Thursday evening. One three round affair between Alfred Smith, of Sterling Run, and Harry Teats of the East End was pulled off. Referee Parks stopped the bout in the second round and awarded the decision to Mr. Smith. As Teats was nearly out, and the laws of Huntley Borough do not allow finish contests. There has been bad feelings between the two men for some time caused by Mr. Teats drawing some cartoon pictures which were very displeasing to Mr. Smith as to he took this course in showing Mr. Teats were to unload. Referee Parks will referee a bout Saturday evening at Rich Valley for the Social Club at that place.

Evert Barr, of Sterling Run, was a pleasant caller at the mill on Monday. Evert has just finished hoeing ten acres of potatoes and saye he did the job in three days, but wore out twelve hoes while he was at the job. Evert says he has given up life and hereafter will devote his time to tilling the soil. The boys asked Evert for a song and he sang the following selection in his rich tenor voice accompanied by Squire Smith's phonogragh, viz:

I have served my time upon the rail with brake-club, scoop and pick,
The way I flew down old Kane hill would make you fairly sick,
In wind and storm I've trod the decks of many tonnage trains,
But never more will I be seen upon the rail again.
I have opened up the throttle on many an iron steed,
And sixty miles per hour was nothing to my speed.
The people looked and wande red while holding to their hats,
The crew hung on with bated breath while I rattled up their slats.
But now it is the farm for me, I love to hold the plow,
And listen in the evening to the bleating of the cows,
Potato fields enchant me, likewise the waving corn,
But sweeter still the welcome sound of the good old dinner horn.
You can have you tracks and engines, your signals and your blocks,
But to my mind they cannot beat a pasture full of stock,
So good bye to the book of Rules, from bosses I am free,
I am happp now the wholle day through, a farmers life for me.

P. S.—Evert is always welcome when he comes to Huntley.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. INDIGESTION'S RECORD

"The best remedy I can prescribe for your indigestion, madam, is Green's August Flower. I know of several other physicians who prescribe it regularly."

¶Indigestion is making an awful record as a cause of sudden deaths. It is beating heart-failure in its ghastly harvest.

¶You read in the papers daily of apparently healthy and even robust men being suddenly attacked with acute indigestion after enjoying a hearty meal, and of their dying in many cases before a physician could be called in.

¶This should be a warning to you who suffer with regular or periodical attacks of indigestion. If these unfortunate victims of acute indigestion had taken a small dose of Green's August Flower before or after their meals they would no have fallen a prey to such sudden seizures.

¶August Flower prevents indigestion by creating good digestion. It also regulates the liver, purifies the blood and tones up the entire system in a natural way. 7
